

How to Use this Guide

This guide is meant to offer advice on courses to take in the first year of college in order to progress towards a degree for new students at UNC Asheville, or their advisors. Completing a degree will require completion of both the Integrative Liberal Studies (ILS) curriculum as well as major requirements set by the department you choose to declare a major in.

Please read the general plan first. This has information on 100-level requirements for ILS. Then you may review the section on your intended major. Designing your first-year plan will likely consist of beginning with the recommendations under your major, and then adding any and all ILS courses that you feel comfortable taking in your first year.

Women's Studies

- A major in Women's Studies involves a lot of options, even at the introductory level. Women's Studies majors should take WMST 100: Introduction to Women's Studies (3) in their first year.
- From there, courses that count towards a Women's Studies major are divided into three areas: Social and Natural Sciences, Humanities, and Related Courses. The courses within these areas are from disciplines across the campus.
- Students pursuing Women's Studies should consult the course catalog to find the courses they want to take.
